DISCUSSION GUIDE

It's important to know that your VMS (Vasomotor Symptoms)—the medical name for hot flashes and night sweats due to menopause—are real and valid. Talking to your doctor about how you are impacted by these symptoms may be helpful. To help make the most of your upcoming doctor's appointment, use your responses below to guide your conversation.

What is VEOZAH™ (fezolinetant)?

VEOZAH is a prescription medicine used to reduce moderate to severe vasomotor symptoms due to menopause. VEOZAH is not a hormone. Vasomotor symptoms are the feelings of warmth in the face, neck, and chest, or sudden intense feelings of heat and sweating ("hot flashes" or "hot flushes").

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

Do not use VEOZAH if you:

- have cirrhosis.
- have severe kidney problems or kidney failure.
- are taking certain medicines called CYP1A2 inhibitors. Ask your healthcare provider if you are not sure.

Please see additional Important Safety Information on page 4.

Questions to ask your doctor about hot flashes and night sweats:

- ✓ How long could I expect to experience symptoms?
- ✓ Are there any triggers that may worsen my symptoms?
- ✓ What are my prescription treatment options?

Tell your healthcare provider about all the medicines you take, including prescription and over-the-counter medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements. VEOZAH may affect the way other medicines work, and other medicines may affect how VEOZAH works.

VEOZAH can cause serious side effects, including:

- increased liver blood test values and liver problems. Your healthcare provider will do a blood test to check your liver before you start taking VEOZAH. Your healthcare provider will also do this blood test monthly for the first 3 months, at month 6, and month 9 after you start taking VEOZAH or if you have signs or symptoms that suggest liver problems. If your liver blood test values are elevated, your healthcare provider may advise you to stop treatment or request additional liver blood tests.

Stop VEOZAH and call your healthcare provider right away if you have the following signs or symptoms of liver problems:

- feeling more tired than you do usually
- nausea
- vomiting
- itching
- yellowing of the eyes or skin (jaundice)
- pale feces
- dark urine
- pain in the right upper stomach (abdomen)

The most common side effects of VEOZAH include:

- stomach (abdominal) pain
- diarrhea
- difficulty sleeping (insomnia)
- back pain
- hot flashes or hot flushes

These are not all the possible side effects of VEOZAH. Tell your healthcare provider if you have any side effect that bothers you or does not go away.

Call your healthcare provider for medical advice about side effects. You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch or call 1-800-FDA-1088.
